Bellouin et al. (2020) studied the effects of aerosols and cloud ice on the Earth's energy balance. They found that the constrained scenarios show a reduction in the aerosol forcing compared to the original runs. The energy balance diagrams illustrate the differences in the aerosol (ΔF_{aer}) and cloud ice (ΔF_{aci}) forcing for constrained and original scenarios.