Editor:

P5, L7: I always thought that UPLC and UHPLC mean the same thing. Is there a need for using both abbreviations?

Answer:

UPLC is a trademark of Waters, that is why we kept it; but it means the same thing. We could change.

Editor:

Figure 5: please check that the normalization is indeed per $d\ln D$ not per $d\log D$. The latter is more common.

Answer:

It is the right unit, but we could convert, if necessary.
