We thank the reviewers for their thorough work and their exhaustive comments. In light of the > 90 comments provided by the first reviewer and the overlap in comments among some of the reviewers, we have grouped the comments according to the section of the manuscript that they cover. To respond to the reviewers' comments we have considerably modified the manuscript including a change in the title and figures, the addition of three tables that give details about sampling sites and the addition of text to describe the methods and reasoning, developed in previous work, that were deployed here.
