

Interactive comment on “Importance of aerosols for annual lightning production at global scale” by S. Venevsky

Anonymous Referee #2

Received and published: 14 April 2014

I would like to correct a typing error towards the end of my review. It should read, "Over one year, the thermal equator has huge variability and the variations of lightning due to changes in temperature from month to month at a given location will be much more than the contrast between different geographic locations in the annual average of lightning."

Interactive comment on Atmos. Chem. Phys. Discuss., 14, 4303, 2014.