

Interactive comment on “Ice melt, sea level rise and superstorms: evidence from paleoclimate data, climate modeling, and modern observations that 2 °C global warming is highly dangerous” by J. Hansen et al.

J. Dale

jackdale@telus.net

Received and published: 20 August 2015

Kowtan and Way have shown that HadCRUT data underestimates Arctic temperatures. So it is not surprising that HadCRUT temperatures would be lower than GISS temperatures.

Interactive comment on Atmos. Chem. Phys. Discuss., 15, 20059, 2015.

C6088