

Interactive comment on “Validation of water vapour profiles from the Atmospheric Chemistry Experiment (ACE)” by M. R. Carleer et al.

M. R. Carleer et al.

Received and published: 27 May 2008

The authors find that the comments of the two anonymous referees are well thought and very constructive. M. Carleer is currently rewriting the paper, taking into account all the comments. In view of the large number of contributors to this paper who in fact did the job, this takes quite some time however. The only comment that might not be addressed is the suggested title change, but I (M. Carleer) think this is not a very important issue anyway. The only issue with this is that several other papers in the same special issue are probably making references to this paper. I am sorry if the referees find the response on the short side, but as I do agree with all their comments, I don't really know what to add.
