

Interactive comment on “Trends in normalized difference vegetation index (NDVI) associated with urban development in northern West Siberia” by Igor Esau et al.

A. Colpaert (Referee)

alfred.colpaert@uef.fi

Received and published: 3 June 2016

Page 9 / 14, vegetation period, this is usually referred to as "growing season".

page 11, line 19-20 soil heat fluxes are quite complex, and I would say the better drainage just gives better rooting conditions for woody species.

It could be fruitful to discuss reasons for the greening / browning, what is the relative role of climate and what is the role of new infrastructures.

---

Interactive comment on Atmos. Chem. Phys. Discuss., doi:10.5194/acp-2016-51, 2016.