Dear Referee Dr. Cohen,

First of all, we would like to thank you for the effort and useful suggestions that you have done for the manuscript on mercury wet deposition flux performed at the GMOS sites distributed worldwide. We completed the revision of the manuscript according to comments provided by you and the other reviewers taking into account the important input and corrections you highlighted. We appreciate very much the valuable comments for improving the readability and interpretation of the manuscript. We think that after this review, our manuscript has been now improved. Attached to this text, as supplement file we reported point by point our detailed responses to the
