

General comment

The authors have done a great job addressing my major, minor, and technical comments in the manuscript and supplement. The goals, findings, and limitations of this study are more clearly addressed in the manuscript now and set the stage for future measurements with this method and in this region and other urban areas for VCP detection. I thank them for addressing the comments so thoroughly and feel this manuscript is suitable for publication.